

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to a method for disrupting cultured cells that lack a cell wall, the method comprising passing the cells suspended in a suspension fluid through a nozzle at a low pressure, 5 wherein the outflow of the nozzle does not impinge on the outflow of a second nozzle if multiple nozzles are present.